One Vote Puts CofC Directors on Record for Special Election

Directors Hear Status of Justice Court

Supervisor Dave Bird spent Tuesday evening with the Board of Directors of the Lemon Grove Chamber of Commerce, and told them of the new law pertaining to the inferior courts.

Mr. Bird said the new law gives the Supervisors authority to re-arrange the court system of their counties, and provides for municipal courts to replace justice courts when the total population of any justice court jurisidiction reaches 40,000 then the court automatically become a municipal court.

The Board of Supervisors has been working on the re-arrangement in San Diego County, he said. According to present plans, the Homeland township justice court remains as at present, with the expectation that this township will reach the 40,000 population figure within a few years.

The matter of endorsement of the special school election Friday, April 13, was brought before the directors, with Superintendent of Schools Byron L. Netzley and board director V. J. Dorman speaking on behalf of the proposal to raise the tax limit from 90c to $1.40.

No one spoke in opposition. When President Hill called for a motion Mr. Dorman, who is also a member of the Board of Trustees of the Lemon Grove School District, made a motion that the Board of Directors of the Chamber of Commerce endorse the special election.

The president called for a second. A long pause, during which time it looked as though the motion would be lost for want of a second, then J. B. Pearce seconded it.

President Hill called for the "ayes" vote.. V. J. Dorman alone voted "Aye." The president then called for the vote of those opposed.

Dead silence!

The president therefore declared the motion carried.

Camp Fire Girls Sell Doughnuts

Lemon Grove Camp Fire Girls have scheduled their annual doughnut sale for April 7 through April 28. The girls will take orders from local residents beginning April 7, and will make deliveries on April 20, 21, 27 and 28.

Mrs. Mary Blalock, 1781 Dupont, is in charge of the local effort, assisted by Mrs. Sidney R. Close.

Orders from clubs or churches would be appreciated. Orders of 5 dozen or more will be delivered any day during the month.

Proceeds help finance the Camp Fire activities of the individual members, of the groups, the area council and the national organization.

Each girl receives a credit of 4c for each dozen sold, it was explained. This can be used for any Camp Fire activity the girl desires, or it can be pooled with that of the other members of the group for group activity such as a trip to camp, to Los Angeles, the beaches.

In addition, each girl who sells 50 dozen will receive a special honor, designed by Mrs. Henry Storr, president of the Leaders' Association. Stars will be added for each additional 25 dozen. The special honor, Mrs. Storr said, cannot be purchased. It must be won by the girl's own efforts.

Quota for the sale in the San Diego Council area is 65,000 dozen.

Council proceeds will be used to meet budgetary requirements for the next year, and which were not met by the Community Chest drive which fell short of its goal this year. Part of the proceeds will be used to start a fund to replace a cabin at Camp Wolahi in Cuyamaca Park. The cabin, only winterized one in the camp, was destroyed by fire during an electrical storm early this year.

Mounted delivery will start to the 7600 block on Circle drive, the 1300 block on Bakersfield and the 1300 block on Taft at the same time.

Mail boxes in these cases must be provided at the curb line, for the convenience of the carrier.

Residents should spend this week end providing boxes for the receipt of their mail Monday. There will be one delivery each day.

Fashion Show is Pleasing Event at Club

The fashion show given by the Forward Club on March 30, at its club house, was a great success.

The surprise motif of the show was a wedding party. As the guests arrived for the fictitious wedding their clothes were described by a very able commentator, Forward Club Junior, Mrs. David Hentigan. All the guests were senior and junior club members modeling lovely spring clothes from the Carol Ann Dress Shop. The scintillating jewels the models wore were from the Walter Jewelry Co.

After the wedding guests had all arrived, Mrs. Kenneth Vaughn, at the piano, struck up the wedding march. Onto the stage came two exquisite bride's attendants, Mrs. O. V. Brandt, and Mrs. J. V. O'Reilly, both junior club members. Their dresses were ballerina length pasted marquisette, one pink and one light blue.

They were followed by the matron of honor, lovely Mrs. William Hubbard, Forward Club Junior President. She, too, wore a ballerina length embroidered marquisette in sea foam green. She wore a large halo of marquisette of the same color.

Next came the little flower girl, Patty Lou O'Reilly, strewing flowers in her path. The ring bearer, Kathy O'Reilly, followed with the satin ring cushion. These little girls are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. O'Reilly.

Then the bride stepped onto the stage. She wore a simply styled gown of white embroidered marquisette with hip length

Monterey Heights School—Includes General Election precincts: Lemon Grove 10, 11 and 12.

Registered voters will receive a sample ballot in the mail soon, and will find the polling place at the bottom of the ballot.

Some Questions and Answers

On numerous occasions, two or three questions have been raised concerning the coming school election on Friday, April 13. Here are the questions and the answers:

1. What became of the bond money voted last year?

Answer: This money was voted to build school buildings. Combined with the money received from the State, 34 classrooms will be constructed for the Lemon Grove School District within the next year. These are capital outlay funds that may not be used for salaries or school operations.

2. What will be the cost of this election to the average home owner in Lemon Grove?

Answer: The average home in Lemon Grove valued at around $10,000 to $12,000 is assessed at from $2,000 to $2,500. The proposed tax increase would cost the average home owner from $10 to $12 per year. For example:

If your home is assessed at $2500, your additional tax would be $12.50 per year.

If your home is assessed at $3000, your additional tax would be $15.00 per year.

If your home is assessed at $2000 and you have a $1000 exemption, your additional tax would be $5 per year.

Install VFW Officers Sunday

Officers of Lemon Grove Post, 2082, VFW, will be installed Sunday at 8 p. m. in the Veterans Hall by A. T. Henderson, Post Commander. The list of officers was published recently following election.

Mrs. Dewey Whitmeyer, of First District, will also install newly elected officers of the Auxiliary. Mrs. W. T. Meyers will be the new president. A complete list of officers will be given in the Review next week.

The public is invited.

The Masons Continue Their Travels to Desert Area

Another interesting trip is to Mahogany Flat including Skidoo, an old mining camp; Aguerreberry Point, a superb view of the valley from Panamint Mts. on the west.

Charcoal Kilns: A group of kilns used to make charcoal in the early mining days. They are located in Wild Rose Canyon.

Mahogany Flat: A view point, and starting point of the trail leading to Telescope Peak, the highest point in the Panamint Range whose base is below sea level.

Stopping at Furnace Creek Ranch points of interest to be seen are—

Golden Canyon: a gorgeous display of color which ranges from deep purple to rich gold, as the sun passes overhead.

Devils' Golf Course: vast beds of rugged salt crystals.

Natural Bridge: an arch spanning a weird canyon in the Black Mountains.

Bad Water: 280 feet below sea level, the lowest point on the American continent.

Artist's and Volcanic Drive: a circle into a region remarkable for it's coloring.

Dante's View: From this point 6000 ft. above sea level, one may see the lowest point in Death Valley—a sheer drop to 280 feet below sea level at Bad Water. In the distance the snow-capped peaks of the High Sierra provide an unforgettable contrast. This panorama is without peer anywhere else in the world.

Ryan: Here centered in former years the extensive mining activity of the Pacific Coast Borax Co. Twenty-Mule Team Canyon is a twisting road penetrating tumbled hills where a mighty paroxysm of nature once shook the earth, and left it topsy turvy.

Zalriskie Point: An awe-inspiring view of Death Valley, and the Panamint Range, as seen from the rugged Badlands of the Funeral Mountains. This view from the Mason's opinion is the high point of Death Valley. It was here that they remarked "This is the best yet, including Grand Canyon, Yellowstone Na-

Rising Costs Put Squeeze on School Budget

The citizens of the Lemon Grove School District will go to the polls Friday, April 13, to decide whether or not they are willing to increase the tax limit from 90c to $1.40.

The district budget at present is unable to cope with the expenses arising from increasing enrollments, high costs of supplies, and the need for adequate salaries for school employees.

Various citizen groups of Lemon Grove petitioned the Board of Trustees to call this election for April 13, when it became evident that additional funds are necessary if the schools are to continue to maintain present commendable standards.

Many of the experienced teachers, secretaries, and other employees are being forced, because of inadequate salaries, to seek positions in neighboring districts where higher salaries are offered.

If supply costs continue to rise, or even remain at present levels, school standards will take a sharp decline unless more funds are available. It will be necessary to equip, operate, and maintain 34 new classrooms here. Students in the junior high are entitled to the same shop courses, homemaking classes, and complete physical education program that other schools offer.

The existing budget cannot provide for present needs. More funds are needed, and these funds can come from only two sources. The first source is the State General Fund, but these allocations have not been increased, and for the past three years bills submitted to the State Legislators to provide more State money to school districts have been defeated.

The alternative is money from local property taxes. Lemon Grove is a low wealth school district because it is a residential, not a manufacturing, section. While the average district in California has $10,000 in taxable property for each child in school, here there is but $3500 in taxable property for each child in school. And now we have twice as many children entering kindergarten as are graduating from the eighth grade!

The present tax rate was set in 1933, 18 years ago, when enrollment was small and costs of operating the school were much lower. But now never-ending lines of children are entering the schools. In 10 years the number has grown from 279 to 1820. From 7 teachers in 1940, the number has grown to the present 63, with more needed for the coming term.

Throughout the state, 154 districts have found it necessary to raise the tax ceiling in order to operate efficiently. Twenty-some districts here in San Diego County have held similar elections, and in each case those districts have had a greater taxable wealth than that of Lemon Grove, and none has had a rate of growth in enrollment comparable to that of Lemon Grove.

The proposed tax to be voted upon here on April 13 would raise the legal tax limit from 90c to $1.40 and would provide the funds for school operating costs.

The question to be answered at the election next week on Friday is whether Lemon Grove wishes to make the financial effort equal to that of other districts to provide a comparable school program for the children in this community.

J. N. Forces Near 38th Parallel; Johnston Wants New Parity Ruling

WHERE TO NOW?—Grim, pipe-smoking Douglas MacArthur took time out from directing a war in Korea and his duties as top man in Japan to tell newsmen U.N. forces were insufficient in numbers to hold line at the 38th parallel. He pointed out that there are no natural defense features anywhere near its immediate proximity.

The general's statement brought to the front again the question of what happens now that the Chinese have abandoned their last great defense center below the parallel and have retreated into North Korea. Do U.N. forces advance beyond the line and continue their campaign?

The British government has insisted for weeks, as a political matter, that the parallel was as far as U.N. forces should pursue the Reds. This view was backed by a number of United Nations members.

In Washington the situation was put like this: If the U.N. succeeds in smashing the next expected Communist offensive and the Reds then continue retreating, how far north should the U.N. forces go?

Prodding, hard-working Matthew Ridgway, commander in Korea, wanted a quick answer as his troops stood poised along the line. If his advance was stopped it meant a stalemate in the war and the dirty business of preparing a defense line on unfavorable terrain. If he was given the go-ahead signal it meant more of his slow but thorough tactics of "operation killer."

MEAT MAKERS—A big man in a pearl-gray ten-gallon hat stiffened, turned purple, and brought his polished boots from desk to floor with a crash: "This is the most outlandish thing those fools in Washington ever thought up," he exploded.

President Truman, vacationing at the "little White House" at the naval base at Key West, defended his administration at a news conference. He said his staff was made up of honorable men.

One of 2,500 ranchers attending a cattle raisers meeting in Dallas, he was expressing the view of fellow cattlemen who had just heard a government plan to roll back cattle prices 10 to 20 per cent.

That view of the government's attempt to hold down inflation and to regulate prices was not confined to his group. The automobile industry, labor, grain farmers, steel, and numerous others continued their screams. The cattlemen were just a little more colorful.

Cattlemen said a roll-back of prices would force curtailment of production and encourage black markets. Like farmers throughout the nation, they argued that production costs have advanced and that increased supply will regulate prices.

Said one rancher: "You can't control what the public is willing to pay for meat."

FOOD PRICES—Eric Johnston, the former fair-haired boy of the movie industry, lately turned economic stabilizer for the government, sent word to the White House he had found the way to hold down food prices.

Smiling Eric reported that the "parity extension" provision is the key to inability to keep food prices in line. So long as he and Michael DiSalle, the chubby price controller, cannot touch a food price until it gets above a "parity" that moves in a rapidly ascending spiral, they cannot control inflation.

This, Johnston said, is the heart of the problem. Unless food prices can be held and rolled back, there will be no holding wages. And if wages continue to go up, industrial prices and "parity" will keep on climbing and the economy will be torn apart.

Johnston has about as much chance of getting congress to repudiate parity as he would of getting Iowa to stop growing corn. Nevertheless, he recommended: (1) A change in the "parity exemption" provision of the present law; (2) authority to use subsidies to hold prices in line; (3) extended licensing powers; (4) adequate authority to handle labor disputes.

THE HOT SEAT—The hottest spot in the U.S. the past several weeks has been the witness chair at the senate crime investigating committee's hearing in New York. Occupying that seat has been gambling kingpin Frank Costello and handsome William O'Dwyer, former mayor of New York, now U.S. ambassador to Mexico.

The committee was trying to prove that Costello controls a gambling syndicate that reaches to the Main Streets of America. As for O'Dwyer, the committee wanted to know if there is any connection between gambling and big-time politicians in New York.

The hot seat really got hot when Senator Tobey, balding and acid-tongued member of the committee, asked O'Dwyer why such a "prominent man" as he should trot to the home of Costello to ask his advice and counsel.

O'Dwyer said he was carrying out an army assignment, adding, "They say there's a lot of it (bookmaking) in New Hampshire."

"Well, we haven't a Costello in New Hampshire," Tobey roared.

"I wonder," O'Dwyer retorted, adding that Tobey had sent to New York for campaign funds.

"It's not true," Tobey shouted.

"I'm under oath," O'Dwyer bristled. "You're not."

To which Tobey roared, "I'm not a fourflusher."

All of which provided 15,000,000 television fans with a spectacular show, putting soap operas to shame. What it provided in the way of facts concerning gambling in the U.S. is anybody's guess.

The realities of the Korean war are shown in the picture of two waifs, perched on a haystack, calmly waiting for U.S. troops in the background to fire a heavy mortar. Ask yourself this question: How would you feel if it was acted out in the U.S. and the waifs were American kids?

POLITICS—The 1952 presidential campaign was again in the news with a published report that President Truman made a deal with General Eisenhower to make Ike available in 1952.

According to the story, widely published throughout the U.S., the President told Ike that one Harry Truman did not want to be accused of exiling a potential powerful contender for the honors of the White House. The general, in his usual blunt and straight-forward way, attempted to kill the story. His statement said "the President has never mentioned to me any political possibilities of 1952 whatsoever."

That should have been that, but rumors persist that Eisenhower will be available in 1952 to one of the major parties. As things stand now it would appear he could win hands down.

RENT CONTROL—A 90-day extension of the rent control law was passed by the house after heated debate. The measure already has been enacted by the senate. It was sent to the White House where the President was expected to sign it without delay. It becomes effective April 1 and expires June 30.

House members pushing the measure argued decontrol would interfere with recruiting workers for defense production and lift limits in defense and military districts.

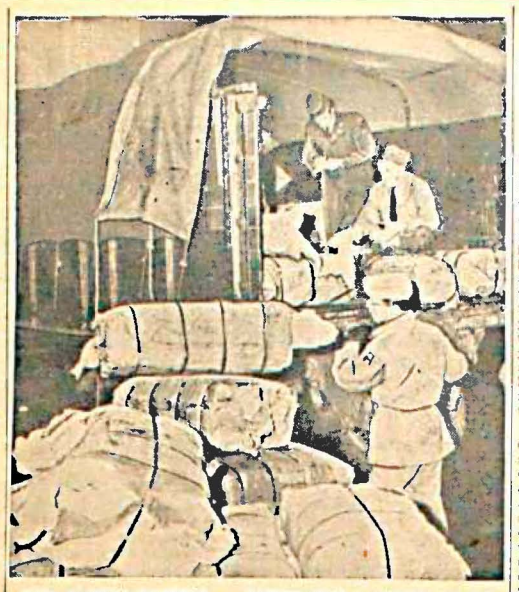
CROP PROSPECTS

1951 Production May Set New Record

With a break in the weather, American crop production in 1951 may set a record, but whether the peak output is the answer to spiraling food prices is the big question, even for the nation's farmers.

One favorable trend is the growing number of beef cattle and hogs, sources of a major item in the country's diet. Cattle numbers are now at 84,200,000 head, compared with a low of 78,000,000 in 1948.

Stocks of wheat and corn, raw material for meat and dairy products, are ample and without acreage restrictions. Winter wheat planting is up one-sixth over last year. Indications in the midwest corn belt point toward another bumper planting this spring, officials of the department of agriculture said in a recent report.



ARMY RE-BUYS GI STOCK . . . Soldiers check merchandise in army truck in Philadelphia as bales of goods are piled on sidewalk outside a war surplus store for loading on three giant trailer trucks. The goods were bought by the army from the store. It was hinted that the army is buying up the stock on a rush order from Washington. This was a repurchase of stock sold to the store earlier by the army, and the transaction was very hush-hush. Goods included overshoes, cartridge belts, garrison caps.

NEW PREMIER OF IRAN . . . Hussein Ala (hat in hand), the new premier of Iran, attends funeral of Gen. Ali Razmara, with Razmara's family. Hussein Ala, a strong pro-westerner, was approved unanimously by the senate to succeed Gen. Ali Razmara, who was assassinated recently.

DOTTIE JOINS BASEBALL RANKS . . . With Bing Crosby interested in the Pittsburgh Pirates and Bob Hope in the Cleveland Indians, Dorothy Lamour becomes the third member of the films to join the ranks of baseball folks, and signs up as a scout for the Boston Red Sox as General Manager Joe Cronin holds contract in Sarasota, Fla. Miss Lamour is on location at Sarasota and spends much of her spare time watching the Red Sox in their spring training workouts and exercises.

RED OFFICIAL ENDS SENTENCE . . . Eugene Dennis, secretary general of the Communist party, drives with his wife and son following Dennis' release from the federal house of detention in New York. He was released after serving a shortened term of one year for contempt of congress. Dennis, who was convicted with other top Reds for conspiring to overthrow the government by force, is free on bail in the case, pending a decision by the United States supreme court.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

DREW PEARSON

Spring Offensive

IF RUSSIA follows the doctrine of the famous German war strategist, Count Karl von Clausewitz, as it has in the past, it would seem likely that Moscow would order an attack on Yugoslavia some time this spring, for Clausewitz taught that the time to make war is when you are strongest and your potential enemy is weakest. The moment your enemy begins gaining strength, according to the war theory followed by the Germans and Russians for the last hundred years, then it's time to strike.

A careful, cold-blooded diagnosis of Russian strategy in the past shows rather definitely that they expected the United States to fall apart at the seams economically after V-J day in 1946. The depression which even some American economists expected after the war was banked on by Moscow to start unemployment, unrest and riots and either bring the United States into the Communist orbit without war or else make military victory easier for the Russians. Certainly the expected depression, Moscow figured, would bring communism to Europe.

And there was a time, late in 1947, when this strategy almost succeeded in Europe. This was when droughts, plus a Communist-inspired strike of Italian harvest hands, plus French railroad and shipping strikes, plus riots and general war discouragement had certain European democracies near the toppling point. It was at this crucial time that such American aid as the friendship trains, followed by a special session of congress which voted food for hungry Europeans, followed by the Marshall plan broke the back of the Communist drive to take over Europe.

Since then the pro-American democracies in Europe have been getting stronger while the Communist movement is getting weaker. Moscow definitely missed the boat in those immediate postwar years and now is faced with the quandary of whether it may miss the boat again or whether it should cold-bloodedly precipitate a war, for the beginning in earnest of European rearmament under General Eisenhower means that the military advantage now enjoyed by Moscow soon must pass from its hands. Unpleasant as the contemplation of those facts may be, nevertheless they are facts we have to face and no country need contemplate them more carefully than the one nation which dared to thumb its nose at Moscow—Jugoslavia.

Tito Knows Russian Traits

When talking privately, the man who now bosses Jugoslavia is extremely frank about the danger of an attack on his country this spring.

Tito also expressed the view that, if the Russians attack, they will drive through the British zone of Austria, skirt one side of Trieste, and advance down the unguarded Dalmatian coast. This would cut off all Adriatic seaports and make it impossible for the United States to send military aid to him.

Simultaneously, Tito predicted the Bulgarian army would advance from the opposite direction to cut off the rail line from Jugoslavia to Salonika (Greece). He added that, in anticipation of such an attack, he had established a series of hidden forts in the hills along the Dalmatian coast—forts that are well stocked with food and ammunition and could hold out for some time.

"I am not worried about an attack by satellite armies," Tito said. "The Hungarians, Poles and Czechs will not fight. The Bulgarians will fight better because they have been promised Macedonia. However," he added, "if the Red army itself attacks, that is something else again."

Tito also expressed the opinion that Moscow did not want the Korean war to spread and actually had tried to hold back the Chinese from taking the offensive against the U.N. forces there. He based this view on his own experiences with the Kremlin; also because the Russians had sent Jugoslav, Polish and other satellite nationals to work in China in an attempt to cement the Soviet orbit through an exchange of personnel. Some of these Jugoslavs, he said, had reported their impressions of Russo-Chinese relations back to him.

Vigorous in his denunciation of Russia, Tito said "We do not propose to become an appendage of Russia." Then, to his American friend he added, with a smile, "nor of America, either."

Well-Trained Troops

Perhaps the most important fact about present American aid to Jugoslavia is that, in effect, we are buying the support of 32 Jugoslav divisions. This brings up the all-important questions: are they prepared and will they last longer than the Jugoslav army in 1941?

The answers are obviously difficult. However, American military observers recently have been permitted to inspect Jugoslav troops and consider them well trained.

Around the House

Before removing the hull, cut fresh pineapple into slices. It is then much easier to trim the hull from around each slice.

Children will like butterscotch cereal for a change. Simply serve with brown in place of white sugar.

When cane-bottom chairs start to sag, wash them thoroughly with hot water and dry them outdoors so they'll shrink up tight. To preserve the cane, give it a good coat of clear varnish when it's almost dry.

Sage is a good herb to use to season spareribs. Allow three-fourths pound of spareribs for each person and give them long, slow cooking.

Combine 3 tablespoons of cocoa with the same amount of sugar, then add 1½ cups milk, 1½ cups water and stir in 1½ cups rolled oats. Cook as usual.

Save Your Jobless Pay

By ROSS GRAHAM

Ed. Note: This is the tenth of a series of 10 special articles.

California's unemployment insurance system is facing a crisis. Slowly, but steadily, it is going broke. The solution is in the hands of the 1951 state legislature. Either of three things will happen unless the legislature acts.

The tax, now entirely paid by the employers, will have to be raised.

Employees, who since May 1946, have not paid for unemployment insurance, will again have to find their paychecks reduced by a 1 percent or more deduction for unemployment insurance.

Or, as provided by the present law, when the fund reaches a predetermined low point, all insurance payments to the unemployed will be stopped.

The changes suggested in this series of articles, if made by the present state legislature, will stop some of the frauds and chiseling against the fund, and avoid any of the three unpleasant alternatives above, as long as the present high employment continues.

Already merit rating which fixed the employers' rate of unemployment insurance tax from 0 to 2.7 per cent, is temporarily out of the window.

Largely because of chiseling, the unemployment insurance reserve fund in California was so reduced in 1949 that starting the first of January, 1950, every employer under the act was assessed a minimum tax of 1 percent. Some employers had such a good record of continued employment for their workers that they paid no tax in 1948 and 1949.

Now, through no fault of their own, they are paying a tax the same as levied on less efficient employers.

Of course, as it becomes financially more difficult to do business, partly because of high taxes, workers are liable to lose their jobs entirely. Many employees in the past have been taxed out of business. This is not a sympathy plea for employers.

If the unemployment insurance reserve funds drops below a certain point, unemployment insurance can be stopped altogether. That would be a terrible situation for millions of honest, conscientious working people in California who in future, through no fault of their own, might be out of jobs. They would not be able to get any unemployment insurance.

Before that would happen, the legislature undoubtedly would restore the tax on workers, which was shifted from unemployment insurance in 1946 to disability, or sickness insurance.

Then, instead of paying 1 percent of their salaries as at present into the disability insurance fund, the workers of California would be paying at least 2 percent, the additional 1 percent going to restore the unemployment insurance reserve fund.

Workers would not like that. Their "take-home" pay already has been reduced by various taxes to the point of widespread complaints.

The 1951 legislature has the solution for this dangerous situation and if the workers as well as employers in each assembly and State senatorial district make their wishes known to their legislators, the legislature can save the unemployment insurance fund.

Three things must be done by the legislature.

It must tighten up the "voluntary quit" regulations, so that a person cannot quit a job voluntarily, and get unemployment insurance, unless he has a good reason directly connected with his job.

It must correct the present law which permits the filing of "lag-quarter" claims, whereby a person can loaf on unemployment insurance a total of 12 months out of an 18-month period.

It must tighten up the rules governing the persons getting unemployment insurance payments when they are sent out by the Commission on calls from prospective employers. The racketeers now find it easy to avoid taking such jobs by making an unfavorable impression on the prospective employers.

There are many other deficiencies in the unemployment insurance act which should be corrected. Efforts will be made to correct some of these other deficiencies during the 1951 session of the legislature.

But the correction of these three things alone would make it possible for the unemployment insurance fund balance to be increased during the year rather than to continue to lose money faster than it is collected.

During 1949 the fund went down $118,000,000. During 1950, despite the high employment, it is estimated the fund will have shown another $23,000,000 deficit.

The chiseling referred to above is estimated to take at least $75,000,000 yearly from the fund. Some estimate even more.

Simple arithmetic will give the answer. The legislature can give the remedy. Only the people, by making their wishes known to the members of the legislature, can assure that these needed reforms are made.

It is up to the workers and employers alike.

Regret for time wasted can become a power for good in the time that remains—Arthur Brisbane

OPA! Remember it?

Memories of the World War II Office of Price Administration may have come back to many Californians, last week, with the announcement that civil service examinations are being given in the State to recruit enforcement agents to hunt down violators of regulations on pricing.

Like the prohibition "snoops" of a couple decades ago, it will be recalled, the OPA agents ended up on a popularity par with George III's tea tax men.

Undismayed, however, Price Stabilizer Michael DiSalle is busy recruiting 4000 agents across the Nation. In California, the 12th U. S. Civil Service Region announces that jobs are open to qualified personnnel. Applicants must have had investigative, auditing, legal or accounting training to get the jobs.

On the subject of qualifications for the jobs, applicants and public alike should be interested in the instruction sheet titled "Techniques of Interviewing," circulated to all regional offices by OPA's late San Francisco office. Many Californians must remember the document—it had a lot to do with OPA's popularity rating.

The document went like this:

"Avoid the use of harsh or incriminating words. . . . Get him to talk about himself. . . . He has likes, dislikes, hobbies, pet ideas. . . . When the facts in the case indicate that another person may be involved with the witness, phrase your questioning to transfer the blame. . . . Make the witness feel that he is not telling you anything that you do not already know. . . . Sometimes the factual situation is such that you can work a good 'bluff' on the witness.

". . . Ascertain the status and degree of friendship between the witness and third parties . . . or any degree of animosity. . . . Play this factor up by inference to the witness' mind. . . . point out that he is possibly being played for a sucker. . . . Each little pin point penetration that you make in the witness will make him want to 'sing' to get even. . . . When he sings, you write the music."

Remember the OPA? With "techniques" like that, no wonder its agents were about as popular as the plague.

Observers to the resurrection of the OPA under the title of the Office of Price Stabilization find another thought, of more recent origin, of interest, too. The Kefauver and Fullbright Committee hearings (on criminal infiltration and lack of ethics in government) would indicate that the moral code of businessmen is, perhaps, a bit higher than that of politicians, at the moment.

Exercise of Mr. DiSalle's emergency-created power might well be more palatable to the public, onlookers contend, if both thoughts were kept in mind—"Techniques of Interviewing" and the findings of the Kefauver and Fullbright Committees.

Sparks

FROM THE NEWS CIRCUIT
JAMES DORAIS

The other morning, a neighbor dropped in on the writer's wife and asked her to put the coffee pot on. "I'm mad," she said, "and I want to talk to someone."

Here was her story:

One day each week she squeezes enough out of the family budget to hire a woman to help her with the heavy cleaning. Her helper, Mrs. L—, is a healthy, pleasant person, 30 years old, divorced, who, with her two school age children, lives rent-free with her mother and stepfather. Mrs. L— came to California less than two years ago from an Eastern State.

That morning, when she arrived at the neighbor's house, Mrs. L— announced, "I've been meaning to tell you—please don't let anybody know that I work for you.

"My ex-husband hasn't been sending me anything for the children for some time, so I'm getting aid from the welfare people. But if they knew I was working, they'd have to deduct what I get paid from what they give me, so it wouldn't make any sense for me to work."

The neighbor assured her that she hadn't discussed their arrangement with anyone who was acquainted with her.

"This is the only job I have," Mrs. L— continued. "I figured if I went out and worked full time, by the time I paid taxes and transportation and lunches, I wouldn't make any more than the State gives me. I get $118 a month and I don't have to pay to take the kids to the same dentist and pedistrician your kids go to.

"It's a good deal, and the welfare people told me I really shouldn't go to work anyway, because it's better for the children if I'm home."

It was at that point that my wife's friend hurriedly excused herself and came over for coffee. "Just think," she exclaimed, "it's your taxes and mine that pay her to watch television every day and set a good example to her children in getting something for nothing!"

How does it happen that Mrs. L— has such a "good deal"?

Under the present terms of California's Aid to Needy children Act, a needy child is described as a "person under the age of eighteen years who has been deprived of parental support or care by reason of the death, continued absence from home, or physical or mental incapacity of a parent." This definition, which superseded much more stringent qualifications for aid, was adopted in 1949, and was further liberalized by a Department of Social Welfare bulletin which made clear that a "step parent has no legal responsibility for the support of step-children" and ruled that "the word 'child' includes the unborn child if pregnancy has been verified by a physician."

Since adoption of the liberalized requirements, the case load of the Aid to Needy Children program in California has increased by 63 per cent and the State's share of the cost of the program by 68 per cent, according to estimates by the Legislative Auditor for the State of California.

My wife's friend loves children, and has four of her own. She thinks there should be better ways to aid needy children than to make it as easy as possible for their parents to shirk their responsibilities.

CAPITOL - COUNTY
News Letter
BY
ASSEMBLYMAN RALPH R. CLOYED

This week the Assembly passed and sent to the Senate three bills that change the map of California as far as State Senatorial, Assembly and Congressional Districts are concerned. Amendments were knocked down one after the other by a block of pledged supporters of the bill authored by Assemblyman Laughlin Waters, Chairman of the Reapportionment Committee. The only near break of the pledged support came on the last amendment authored by the San Diego delegation, increasing the Congressional representation for our county, when eight members present abstained from voting and had Chairman Waters and other members of the committee, along with Speaker Sam Collins and Chairman of Rules, Randal Dickey, all working the aisle to hold the vote. A change of six votes would have passed the amendment, but when the announcement came that lifted the Call that had been placed on the House, several members changed their vote and final passage was 29 ayes to 40 noes.

This battle will continue in the Senate where it is expected to meet some rough going, as there are 52 Senators from the North and only 8 from the South, and there is a possibility of going to free conference.

Anti-coersion insurance A. B. 817 by Geddes passed the Insurance and Finance Committee and is headed for the Assembly floor. This bill directed at loan and finance companies that make loans only when insurance is also placed with their office.

Fingerprinting of Public employees at a cost of $290,000 to the State passed by the Ways and Means Committee would affect 283,000 persons throughout the State and City and County school districts employees. The bill is authored by a freshman assemblyman, Charles Chapel, of Los Angeles, an author of a fingerprinting book and a graduate of Annapolis Naval Academy and keeps the members as well as visitors roaring with laughter when he makes a speech with his humorous phraseology punctuated with flowery compliments, caustic criticism, and bits of humor.

Hot Cargo Bill by Senator Hatfield has been ruled as constitutional by legislative council and is not in conflict with the Taft-Hartley Bill. This will probably lead to one of the hot issues of this year's session. A hot cargo bill was passed over former Governor Olsen's veto 10 years ago and was ruled unconstitutional and then went to a vote of the people and was in effect until 1947 when declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court. Two years ago a carefully drafted bill passed the Senate and was defeated in the Assembly. Senator Hatfield has announced that he will push for early consideration of the bill. The terms used in the bill would prohibit from striking or picketing a concern not engaged in a labor dispute and would outlaw the practice of boycotting an establishment which handles the products of another company against which the labor unions are striking.

Child Care Centers. The subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee have deleted $5,400,000 for Child Care Centers from the budget. However, this item is still subject to review by the Committee in full action on the floor of the Senate, the Assembly Ways and Means as well as the vote of the Assembly.

Satisfaction by people finding it necessary to be in Sacramento this week seemed to be the theme. Carroll Huscher of Fallbrook and president of State Locker Association reported satisfaction on their locker bill. Glen Murdock of La Mesa was successful before the state allocation board for approval of schools in his district, while Lauderbach of Chula Vista received final approval of the E and 1st Street School in Chula Vista.

Foothill Echoes Wins Awards

Grossmont Union High School's weekly newspaper, the Foothill Echoes, was awarded the Crombie Allen plaque for showing the most improvement in its issues of 1950-51 by the California Newspaper Publishers Association, at the 26th annual Newspaper Day Awards assembly last Saturday at the University of Southern California.

The Echoes made a total of 58 points in the scoring and received the highest individual score on the "Enterprise and Interest" section. One judge said that the paper showed the most extraordinary improvement of any paper he had witnessed in three years. The Echoes editor, Tom Pflimin, ought to be justly proud of this tribute which was paid to the paper and to him for the good work that he has done.

Twelve papers competed in this contest whose purpose it was to improve the standards and quality of high school newspapers, which were judged on typography, page one makeup, news writing, art, press work, editorial page, sports page, features, newspaper style, and interest and enterprise by four judges from the Southern California School of Journalism.

Foothill Echoes, Grossmont's weekly newspaper, won a place in the first division of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association contest at Columbia University, N. Y., under its editor Tom Pflimlin. Last year it placed in the second division under the co-editorship of Mitzi Beck and Alice Milne. Foothill Echoes was placed in the first division because of its originality, its balance, and many special features.

Mr. Purves will accept new registrations to this free course on Monday. Another course began at Monterey Heights School on Wednesday evening.

Mrs. Daniel Lairsey, a P.T.A. room mother, assisted in chaperoning the tours.

Students watched the processing of water as it arrived from the Colorado via the San Vicente and El Capitan until it was ready to be put in the filtered water reservoir. Mr. Hoffman and James Keller, both of the plant, guided the student groups.

Vista La Mesa School

Spring has arrived in the kindergarten at the Vista La Mesa School. The children have been drawing birds in flight and gaily colored flowers. New jumping ropes are adding pleasure to playground activities.

Both morning and afternoon sessions enjoyed the novelty treats given them for Easter. They were colored beaded animal crackers, surrounded by molds of colored frosting, and set on graham crackers. Richard Locke, Sharon Hortigan, Monty Keebler, and Cynthia Sharp planned this treat.

Pets are making appearances in the spring classrooms. Jo-Ellen Jaynes brought her rabbit to school, and Roger Sullivan brought a turtle.

High School News

"Grossmont's Future Farmers of America is State Citrus Judging champion for the first time in its history," announced James Dyer, F.F.A. Sponsor. In addition to having the state champion team, Weldon Dally won the coveted position of individual "high man" of the state.

The team representing Grossmont consisted of Alan Hawley (who placed as fourth high man in the state ratings,) Don Martin, and Dally.

The final state citrus judging took place Saturday, March 17, at the 26th Annual Citrus Judging Fair in San Bernardino. The contest was divided into five groups. Grossmont placed first in three of these divisions: packed boxes, oranges, and high team contest; and fourth in the lemon division.

Each F.F.A. team judged and graded fruit in each division, and each team is judged in turn for its decisions, and ability in evaluating the fruit.

As state champion team, Grossmont received an 18 inch gold trophy which will remain with the chapter. A 17-jewel gold wrist watch was awarded Weldon Dally as state individual champion while Hawley received an automatic pencil for ranking fourth highest in the state.

The Helix High Organization committee, consisting of elected delegates from classes, in Grossmont Hi, is kept busy trying to shape the future Helix student government. A constitution committee is studying constitutions preparatory to making a rough draft. Committee members are taking votes from their home rooms to choose between black and white or green and gray for the school colors. A serious problem facing the committee is to write a constitution in time to enable election of officers this year. The group is advised by Mr. Duea and Tom Wariuurton, and the chairman is Noel Mickelson.

Grossmont Union High School was the only San Diego County high school to attend the Southern California Debate League Individual Events Tournament, held at Beverly Hills High School on Saturday at Beverly Hills.

Winning finalists from Grossmont were Anne Odin, who received first place in Original Oratory and Bill Dyer, who was awarded third place in Humorous Interpretation.

Events were divided into two categories memorized and non-memorized.

"Mother is a Freshman," a comedy in three acts, is being presented each evening this week end by the Gym Players at 8:15 in the auditorium.

The Grossmont Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, State Citrus Judging Champions, will play host to all county FFA's at an annual field day at Buckle's Rocky Home Guernsey Farm in Lakeside on Saturday. The day will be divided into three divisions—dairy, fat stock (beef, sheep, hogs) and poultry. Judges for the day will be: Messrs. Watson and Bowman, dairy; Mr. Chamberlain, fat stock; and Messrs. Telgard and Beesley, poultry.

The Future Nurses Club has been invited to take a tour of San Diego County General Hospital on April 12. The purpose of the club is to teach girls about nursing and to stimulate interest in this worthy profession.

A typing class for beginners will start Monday at 7 p. m. in room 12 at Grossmont Union High School with Don Bilyeu as instructor. There is no charge.

Roger Deas, secretary to Governor of California, will speak before the Student Body on "Youth and Government," Friday, in an assembly. The program is sponsored by the Hi Y Clubs.

Mrs. William H. Clark spoke before the Chapter of the California Scholarship Federation, on China. Mrs. Clark has worked as a missionary in China for many years, and she had many interesting experiences to tell the group. Her talk centered around the beliefs and customs of the Chinese people.

bridal veil. This costume was beautifully modeled by Mrs. James A. Martin.

The bride's bouquet, and the nosegays carried by her attendants were all made by Mrs. Frank Barber and Mrs. O. Patterson, who with Mrs. L. D. Newton, have done such distinctive decorations in the club house this past year.

When the curtain went down on the wedding tableau it was quickly raised again as the clever commentator, Mrs. Hentigan, introduced the bride and a friend of hers a few years after the wedding Mrs. Vaughn, at the piano, had softly changed from wedding music to Brahm's lullaby. The young mothers with their children were Mrs. Jerome Walter and Mrs. Ray Kalanquin. The children, who were Philip Johnson, Sandra Walter, and Kay Kalanquin, modeled crisp cute clothes from Petite Shop.

The finale' was the appearance, not planned, of Mrs. Walter's year old baby creeping onto the stage from between the rear curtains. She received a burst of applause and stole the show.

Much credit for the success of the fashion show goes to Mrs. A. J. Henry, hard working ways and means chairman of Forward Club, who worked out details with Mrs. Carol Winkles, of the Carol Ann Shop, Mrs. Vera Chaffee of Petite Shop, and Mrs. Jerome Walter of Walter's Jewelry, to make the show the success it was.

Church Stresses Foreign Missions

Expansion of Seventh-day Adventist medical and educational work in South Africa will be made possible through a special foreign mission offering to which members of the Lemon Grove Adventist church contributed Saturday, according to Charles H. Betz, pastor.

The offering, which was taken in all Adventist churches in North America, is expected to reach $250,000, of which $40,000 beyond regular budget requirements is earmarked for special projects in Africa.

I'm Voting No

on proposal to raise our School Tax rate .50 on the $100.

The expense and bother of a special election seems so unnecessary, when we are having an election next month anyway.

The Pupil enrollment has increased 6 times since '40.

Teacher Staff up 9 times.

A bit top heavy—Maybe?

.90 to $1.40 is a jump of 55%.

School Tax then is $3.28.

Total tax rate up to $7.29.

Can we pay it? Too Much!

An invitation to dinner had been sent to the new doctor. In reply the hostess received an absolutely illegible letter.

"I must know if he accepts or declines," she declared

"If I were you," suggested her husband, "I should take it to the druggist. A pharmacist can always read doctors' letters, however badly written."

The pharmacist looked at the sheet of notepaper which she had handed him, and without waiting for her explanation went into his dispensary and returned a few minutes later with a bottle which he handed over the counter.

"There you are, madam," he said. "That will be 50 cents."

HOW I BROKE THE SODA HABIT

• "Nothing I ate agreed with me — my stomach would blow up with gas after every meal," says Mrs. Katherine Hill, Worcester, Mass. "I practically lived on baking soda.

"Then a friend told me about Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. My appetite and digestion quickly improved. Pretty soon I forgot soda, and I now feel better than in years."

This great medicine has a wonderful stomachic tonic action. First, it makes you really want to eat. Second, taken regularly it helps your stomach digest food better and so avoid gas, sour stomach, when due to no organic cause.

One 'Reliefer' Has What It Takes

By GRANTLAND RICE

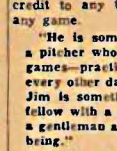
I send you my sons and my favorite ones,
The sons that I love the best.
I send them to you when I know they are due,
And ready to tackle the test.
I send you my sons—but it isn't a gift,
It's merely a loan—for when
They have served out their day of "promotion and pay"
They come to my arms again.
For they all come back to their Mother,
However the die is cast.
They gather the cheers of the radiant years
But the Bush is their home at last.

From a Home Town

Clearwater, Fla. A nice, pleasant-looking fellow that I had never seen before came up and said hello.

"Do you know why I'm here?" he asked. "Maybe the sun," I said.

"Or oranges — or baseball."



Grantland Rice

"No," he said, "I came down here just to see a fellow named Jim Konstanty get ready for another year. Jim is from my home town where he runs a sporting-goods store. I'd like to say that he's a big credit to any town or city or to any game.

"He is something more than a pitcher who could work in 74 games—practically a game every other day all season long. Jim is something more than a fellow with a rubber arm. He's a gentleman and a great human being."

In watching Jim Konstanty work out, the most impressive feature of his pitching is the ease and smoothness of his form. There is no sign of extra effort in sight. John McGraw once said that Bugs Raymond had the finest pitching motion he ever saw. I'll settle for Walter Johnson or Grover Alexander. And Dizzy Dean wasn't far away.

But Konstanty has his share of smoothness or rhythm or ease. Checking back, we recalled that Jim Konstanty had also been the first relief pitcher to reach the pinnacle of being voted the National League's "Most Valuable Player." He was good enough to beat the great Stan Musial out of this hallowed baseball spot.

After acting as a relief pitcher all year, he was still good enough to annoy the Yankees as a starting pitcher in the last world series.

It is interesting to know that one of his town's citizens came down to see him work—not only because he was a star pitcher, but largely because he was a right guy.

Konstanty is no rookie. The records show that he was born in the sterling village of Strykersville, New York, some 34 years ago. That age makes him doubly valuable in the game today, since many rookies are in the draft age.

Phillies of 1951

A year ago at this date, Eddie Sawyer didn't think the Phillies would finish third. He thought his youth needed more seasoning. They finished first, barely beating the Dodgers on the last day. But if Curt Simmons hadn't been called away for army duty, Sawyer would have galloped in by five or six games.

In this uncertain year of 1951, Sawyer has no Curt Simmons around. He still has Konstanty. He has Robin Roberts, one of the best pitchers in either league. He has Bubba Church, Ken Heintzelman and others. But Eddie will miss Simmons, who was about due for a 20 or maybe a 23-game season in the list of winners.

The loss of Simmons to the Phillies, Art Houtteman to the Tigers and Whitey Ford to the Yankees are the hardest blows the draft has delivered so far. They were all stars, all important to their clubs.

Eddie Sawyer, being a Phi Beta Kappa, which means he knows more than a few answers, is a pretty conservative fellow. He is not given to high enthusiasms or to low depressions. He walks a level road—which is the highway of the wise.

He is smart enough to look at the Giants and Dodgers—or the Dodgers and Giants—and know that at this point they both have better ball clubs than he has. They are the manpower teams.

But the Dodgers last year had a much better ball club and he beat them—in spite of Curt Simmons' absence down the stretch.

Sawyer has the toughest job in baseball this season. He must take a 1950 pennant winner and chase two clubs that seem to have much greater strength.

Football Outlook

With her past 30-year record, Notre Dame can stand a season or two below the top.

There will be a big scattering of stars this season from many teams. Michigan loses Ortman, Dufek and Koceski. This was 80 per cent of her ball club. Plus Wahl, Ohio State loses a flock and so does California, which is getting a trifle fed up with Rose Bowl assignments. Red Sanders returns a good nucleus at U.C.L.A. and will definitely be the man to watch on the West Coast.

Coaches at Texas, T.C.U., Oklahoma and S.M.U. needn't worry.

Duck Needs Home

The wood duck, most colorful of American waterfowl, is facing a housing shortage. This species prefers to nest in hollow trees, but in many locations is prevented from doing so because of a shortage of natural cavities in trees, or because those that do exist have already been taken by squirrels or 'coons. And, even if the wood duck gets there first, in many cases the nest is sooner or later discovered and broken up by squirrels or 'coons.

A highly satisfactory solution—both to the wood ducks and to people who like to have them around—is the man-made wood duck nest box.

Nest boxes should be made of rough, unplaned lumber about an inch in thickness. Galvanized nails should be used to resist rusting and should be driven into the boards at an angle to prevent warping. The covers should be tight to prevent rain seepage and fastened in such a way that the box can be easily opened for cleaning. The box should have no finish of creosote or stain, but should be allowed to weather. It will last 5 to 7 years. In the box, when finished, should be placed several inches of clean pine shavings for nesting material.

Cedar poles from four to six inches in diameter are preferable for mounting the box and should be driven firmly into the marsh bottom. This can be done very handily after ice forms by chopping a hole (see photo) and driving it from the ice. The poles should be located well out into the open water area so they will not be readily accessible to a raiding raccoon or cat.

The nest box should be placed on the pole five to six feet above the normal water level and secured with heavy spikes or wire so that it will not turn or sway in the wind. For the best results, the boxes should be erected well before the nesting season (April to July) and not disturbed during that season.

Cost Uncounted

In comparison with other items, the expense figures that get the least attention from the spender are those in connection with the sports of hunting and fishing.

"The outdoor sportsman may be fussy about his household budget, might meticulously turn off every unnecessary light bulb or insist that the thermostat on his heater is set at the minimum," says Gail Evans, advertising and shooting promotion manager, Remington Arms Company, Inc., "but when somebody mentions the cost of hunting and fishing, he's generally looking out the window. There is, of course, a definite reason for this. To the hunter or angler, his sport is Big Medicine, to be taken in big or little sips and as often as possible. It is balm to the soul, nourishment to a tired body and sedative to jangled nerves.

Luxury? Don't be foolish! To hear the sing of a reel, to smell the smoke of gunpowder, to watch the dawning on an ice-fringed marsh or see the moon rise over a wooded lake . . these are all events of much importance to the physical and mental well-being of the average sportsman and to count their costs in drab terms of dollars and cents is considered bordering on blasphemy. There are, however, always some sportsmen who do keep careful records of their expenditures. Hunting and fishing success is not usually determined by the amount of money a sportsman spends on any given trip, so maybe this record-keeping business is a mild form of sadism. It is not recommended for the guy with a one-way pocket."

Sportsmen's expenditure figures, however, are of more importance than the average sportsman realizes.

Films Released

Two colorful films have been recently released by the U.S. fish and wildlife service.

They are "Conservation in Action," and "Hunting The Puma." Announcement of the films' release was made by Oscar L. Chapman, secretary of the interior.

"Conservation in Action" briefly tells the habitat needs of salmon, waterfowl, buffalo, mountain goats, moose and many other creatures, and depicts the activities of the fish and wildlife service in meeting these needs and managing the renewable resources in our waters and on our lands.

"Hunting The Puma" as the name indicates is an action-packed account of a mountain lion hunt.

Hand Lines

Hand line fishing still is more widespread than the average angler might expect. Many fishermen still use hand lines fishing from piers, bridges and breakwaters. Salt water hand lines usually are heavy, tarred lines capable of handling big fish which may be hooked. In hand line fishing, the angler should use more than one hook. The advantage in this is that with hooks spread at different levels, the angler can soon determine at what depth fish bite.

SHORT STORY

Different Language

By Richard H. Wilkinson

SHORTLY BEFORE noon on the day the Garrisons left Laredo for Mexico City, their motor went dead. Mrs. Garrison was greatly disturbed. "Of all places!" she said, "to have this happen. I declare, you should have had the car looked at in Laredo."

"I did," said Mr. Garrison. His voice was muffled because his head was beneath the hood. But Mrs. Garrison was paying no attention anyhow. She was gazing about the wild, rugged, treeless country in which they had stopped, as if expecting Pancho Villa and a horde of vicious looking henchmen to rise up from behind a rock. Five horsemen suddenly appeared outlined against the sky on the crest of a nearby hill.

3-Minute Fiction

Mrs. Garrison let out a squeak of fright. Into her mind there flashed stories of the roving bands of outlaws that inhabited the hills of Mexico.

Mr. Garrison lifted a grease-besmeared face and stared at the horsemen. Then he looked at his wife and saw that her cheeks were white. "Rubbish!" he said. "No need to be scared." But his own heartbeats had increased in volume.

The horsemen were coming down the hill. Mrs. Garrison had a wild impulse to flee. She could see the leader of the quintet and his appearance confirmed her fears. Just as the stories had said, he was dark and handsome and oily.

The leader of the group doffed his hat and said something in Spanish that neither of the Garrisons understood. They regarded each other with frightened looks. One of the henchmen dismounted and proceeded to examine the car.

"They're wondering if it's worth anything," Mrs. Garrison said.

"It isn't," Mr. Garrison told her.

There followed a rapid jargon of speech between the riders. Presently two of them uncoiled ropes and attached the ends to the automobile's bumper. It was quite evident that they planned to tow the thing away, and the Garrisons were congratulating themselves on escaping with their lives, when the leader signed to them to enter the vehicle.

Mrs. Garrison shrieked and clung to her husband. "They're going to kidnap us. Oh, Lord, have mercy!"

Mr. Garrison was more practical. "I doubt if they harm us if we do what they say. If we don't—they might cut off our ears."

Thus having set his wife's mind at rest, he preceded her into the car and sat behind the wheel.

AN HOUR LATER they turned into a side road and presently the car stopped before a great rambling ranch house.

The prisoners were ordered to alight. A wizened, copper-colored Mexican unloaded their handbags and led them inside and to a bedroom.

"Not bad for a kidnaper's hideout," Mr. Garrison commented.

"It will probably take every cent we have to pay the ransom. They think we're rich."

Some one knocked at their door and they both started. But it was the same wizened servant. He beckoned to them and they followed him out and along the corridor and into a dining room. The leader of the kidnapers was waiting for them.

"My father," she said in perfect English, "regrets that he does not speak your language."

The Garrisons were hungry and so they ate. By the time the meal was finished all hands felt pretty gay.

Footsteps sounded on the porch, and a young girl entered. At sight of the Garrisons, she hesitated, but their host greeted her warmly, and beckoned her to him. There followed a jargon of speech between the man and girl. The girl's face suddenly lighted and she looked at the Garrisons.

"My father," she said in perfect English, "regrets that he does not speak your language. But he trusts you have been made comfortable and will stay with him a few days. He has many American friends and whenever the chance offers he likes to extend them the hospitality of his home. He tells me that your car has been repaired and is waiting."

Mr. and Mrs. Garrison looked at each other. Mrs. Garrison said, "Oh, my! Just imagine! Do let's stay, Henry."

And Henry said: "O. K." And for no accountable reason he grinned and felt tenderly of his ears.

Don't Let Aches And Pains Make You Miserable

HADACOL Has Brought Relief to Thousands Who Were Suffering Deficiencies of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron.

Folks who suffer annoying aches and pains have quite a cross to bear because those pains can make them feel miserable. But now it is no longer necessary to let those aches and pains make your life miserable when they are due to a deficiency of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron in your system. Thousands of folks have discovered that the great modern formula, HADACOL, has relieved the real cause of their aches and pains, due to such deficiencies, and life seems wonderful once more.

Mrs. Pfeifer

Mrs. Lydia Pfeifer, who lives at 3115 Third Ave., Detroit 1, Mich., heard how many fine folks who were suffering such a deficiency found relief with HADACOL and she tried it. Mrs. Pfeifer says her aches and pains don't bother her any more and she just can't thank HADACOL enough.

Here is Mrs. Pfeifer's statement: "Before taking HADACOL I had aches and pains, and could not sleep well at night. I have taken three small bottles, and one large bottle of HADACOL and feel so much better in all ways. I can never thank you enough. Now I can sleep and feel more like working. Again I thank you."

Give HADACOL a Chance to help you. If your system lacks these essential elements, you will be amazed at the wonderful results HADACOL can bring you, as it has to thousands of other fine folks who suffered a deficiency of Vitamins B_1, B_2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains. HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body.

If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. Send no money. Just your name and address on a penny post card. Pay postman. State whether you want the $3.50 family economy size or $1.25 trial size. Remember, money cheerfully refunded unless you are 100% satisfied. Adv.

EMPTY MEDICINE CHEST— NO CONSTIPATION EITHER

"15 years ago our medicine chest was full of laxatives of one kind or another. Then we tried eating ALL-BRAN regularly. No constipation since!" Sam Waters, Route 4—Box 29, Renton, Wash. Just one of many unsolicited letters from ALL-BRAN users! If you need help for constipation due to lack of bulk, simply eat an ounce (about ½ cup) of crispy ALL-BRAN daily, drink plenty of water! If not completely satisfied after 10 days, return empty carton to Kellogg's, Battle Creek, Mich. GET DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK!

DO YOU HATE CHANGE of LIFE? and HOT FLUSHES?

Do you suffer from hot flushes, nervous tension, upset emotions due to functional "change of life" (35-52 years)—that period when fertility ebbs away, when embarrassing symptoms of this nature may betray your age?

Then start taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to relieve such symptoms. No other medicine of this type for women has such a long record of success. Taken regularly, Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against this annoying middle-age distress. Truly the woman's friend!

Note! Or you may prefer Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS with added iron. Any druggists.

Ancient Pentagon

The Palace of Minos on the ancient Island of Crete had more more rooms than most modern skyscrapers. It was inhabited by about 100,000 persons and included store-houses offices, court-rooms, chapels, schoolrooms, libraries, soldiers' barracks, coach houses, wine shops, and an inn for strangers.

Hidden Jibe

Humpty Dumpty, in the famous nursery rhyme by that name, was represented by their parents to 13th century English children, as "an egg." The rhyme was intended as a jibe at King John who was compelled to sign the Magna Charta at Runnymede June 15, 1215

WHEN SLEEP WON'T COME AND YOU FEEL GLUM

Use Delicious Chewing-Gum Laxative REMOVES WASTE NOT GOOD FOOD

● When you can't sleep — feel just awful because you need a laxative — do as MILLIONS do—chew FEEN-A-MINT.

Doctors say many other laxatives, taken in large doses, start their "flushing" action too soon . . . right in the stomach where they often flush away nourishing food you need for pep and energy! You feel weak, tired.

But gentle FEEN-A-MINT is different! Taken as recommended, it works chiefly in the lower bowel — removes only waste, not good food! You avoid that weak feeling — you feel fine, full of life! Get FEEN-A-MINT, 25¢, 50¢, or only 10¢

Youngsters' Vocabulary

The average 18-month-old child has a vocabulary of only about 10 words, despite the elaborate claims made by some parents and other doting relatives regarding their speaking ability.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS WASTE

When kidney function slows down, many folks complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Don't suffer longer with these discomforts if reduced kidney function is getting you down—due to such common causes as stress and strain, over-exertion or exposure to cold. Minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or wrong diet may cause getting up nights or frequent passages.

Don't neglect your kidneys if these conditions bother you. Try Doan's Pills—a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While often otherwise caused, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief from these discomforts—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Travel Story

tional Park and anything else we've seen. We were very fortunate in seeing many of these views at the best time of day without haze.

From Death Valley the Masons went to Mt. Charleston Park, Nev., and enjoyed snow scenery in the big pines. Here is located a resort for summer and winter sports.

On the trip home, Big Bear Lake with much snow on the surrounding mountains was of interest; also the new City Creek speedway from Big Bear to Redlands. This new highway makes possible one of the most beautiful scenic drives in California. Driving time from Big Bear City to Redland is only one hour.

The Masons trust that you have enjoyed this trip with them, and that you who have not already done so will be able to see Death Valley in reality, someday.
